A History of Family Success in Education and Study

Pictured is College Principal Dr Stephen Lawson, MA PhD.

Dr Stephen Lawson joined his uncle - possibly the world's foremost Distance-Educator, Principal Joseph Lee - at British Tutorial College*, Nairobi, Kenya, on 1 May 1958. Travelling extensively, working extremely hard to bring knowledge, teaching and education to those in need, and gaining great experience and knowledge of the needs and requirements of men and women throughout Africa and worldwide, Dr Lawson rose to the position of Deputy Principal.

Dr Lawson was fundamental in developing new career-oriented Programs to provide the skills, ability, understanding and competence needed by men and women seeking employment, promotion, and the ability to carry out jobs effectively and with the recognition and respect of seniors, directors, and owners.

Dr Lawson still works hard in developing new Programs, updating and revising existing ones, and ensuring the standards of high quality educational, study and training provision offered. (*British Tutorial College became part of the current College in the 1980s.)

Pictured on the left is Dr Joseph Lee who founded this British College in 1935. The legendary Dr Joseph Lee is the uncle of Dr Stephen Lawson, who's son, David is the current Vice Principal and who has been working for the College for 25 years. Pictured on the right is the 4th Generation of the family to be involved with the College, Hanna Lawson, granddaughter of Principal Dr Stephen Lawson; she has just recently graduated from St. Andrews University with a Master of Arts degree in English.

This accredited family-run College is dedicated to providing high-quality study & education worldwide

NEW COURSE: Hospitality Industry & Administration

Today's modern hospitality industry comprises various sectors providing a diverse range of products, including: accommodation or lodging; food & beverages; tourism & leisure travel; meetings, incentive, conventions & events (MICE); entertainment & recreation; gaming; visitor information.

This Program gives professional training for men and women who:

- are employed in, or wish to gain jobs in, areas of hospitality.
- are entrepreneurs running or intending to open and run profitable businesses in any of the hospitality industry sectors.
- want a solid foundation for further studies at advanced level.

Many hospitality products are intangible services whose characteristics differ from physical products, so managers and staff require specialised knowledge and skills to be able to provide them to the satisfaction of customers.

This Program teaches about:

- modern education systems, contemporary theories and perspectives of education and the roles of modern educators.
- management, leadership and administration in education.
- learning needs and goals, curriculum development, achievement and assessment.

Modern educators need a good understanding of contemporary educational methods, teaching, training, mentoring, and research. This applies to administrators at local or governmental level, to teachers and educational leaders such as a school head teacher.
